

Missing MIT Student's Body Found

22-Year-Old's Body Found On Cape Beach

POSTED: 5:32 am EDT April 20, 2007
UPDATED: 11:36 am EDT April 21, 2007

Email This Story | Print This Story

BOSTON -- The body of a missing Massachusetts Institute of Technology student was found washed ashore in Bourne, Mass.

Daniel Barclay, 22, has been missing for 12 days, officials said. His body was identified on Friday.

Barclay's last known contact was just before midnight on April 8 when he e-mailed some classmates.

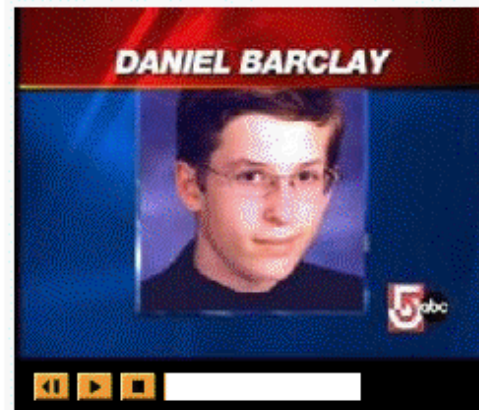

credit cards.

Barclay was a member of MIT's debate team and was working with a toy manufacturer on a design he developed in school.

Barclay was a senior at MIT and was studying political science.

NATIONAL FLOORS DIRECT Click Here.
LOCAL EXPERTS
TheBostonChannel.com
Making your floor covering experience easy, enjoyable, & affordable
while exceeding all of your expectations!

Related To Story

Video: Student's Body Found

Cape Cod District Attorney Michael O'Keefe said there were no immediate signs of trauma or foul play. Barclay's mother reportedly said her son's autopsy revealed that he drowned. An inflatable raft was found near the body, officials said.

Barclay was last seen in his room at Ashdown House at MIT, where he hosted a party the night before he disappeared.

According to published reports, Barclay took his cell phone and wallet but left behind his